

Ralph Gibson

As far back as the Stone Age, when cave dwellers and canines first became friends, the advantages of keeping a “watchdog” were readily apparent. Throughout the centuries, humans lived and worked canines with no leash/collar and no commands, utilizing the natural order established between man and dog. Today, hundreds of dogs are euthanized because of a breakdown in this natural social grouping resulting in pecking order issues. Mere dog training cannot address these issues, but our methods can! Learn the real science of a dog, and make dog training obsolete!

Learning to see the world through a dog’s eyes, how they deal with the world, makes our education program unlike any other. Our methods originated from World-renowned behavioralist Jack Healy. Healy traveled to every continent in pursuit and observation of each form of wild dog that each continent possessed. He spent 18 years examining the natural behavior of the wolves and wild dogs in their habitats to create the most scientific method of behavior. He was a main lecturer at Cornell University’s School of Veterinary Medicine, and was instrumental in founding many federal government agency canine programs. Healy founded the famous United States K-9 Academy and taught Ralph Gibson his methods. You can learn these methods too!

Ralph Gibson has educated people and dogs for 32 years- 27 years professionally. Ralph Gibson’s first five years with dogs incorporated AKC, military, both old- and modern-style police methods, and Schutzhund techniques. He followed with a formal education in New York and Connecticut training under eight master trainers, all of whom held degrees in child, animal and adult psychology. Among these masters was James Salva and the legendary Jack Healy—Gibson’s primary mentor.

With more than 27 years professionally educating people and dogs, Gibson has perfected his techniques. Over the past 10 years, however, Gibson credits what he knows about dogs not to his education or to Jack Healy, but rather to what DOG spells backward—GOD. Gibson views dogs as God’s animals first and his second. There is a natural order of a person and an animal. Before this society got involved in it, there was no such thing as food treats, clickers, or commands- there was natural order. Gibson has the ability to teach God’s natural order thereby eliminating the need for such enhancements. Centuries and centuries ago, people understood this, and the dog today retains it, but the people have lost it. We have to catch the people back up to the dog.

Leadership

Dogs are naturally friendly and sociable and make their owners part of their pack. Every dog needs a pack leader to guide and train him. People need education to understand their animal and assume this role. We grow the people with the dogs, teaching natural order.

Most American's are great nurturers, but we are not always great disciplinarians. When it comes to our canines it is very difficult to know when and how to be a balanced, positive disciplinarian. That is where we come in to guide the people with the dog. "A relationship with a dog cannot be developed by teaching him to sit, stay or lay down- any dog on Earth can do that," says Ralph Gibson. Growing the animal's behavior has little to do with commands. Just as "man shall not live by bread alone" (Matthew 4:4), canines cannot live by commands alone. A mediator is needed to guide and structure the growth in many areas of the relationship between dog and owner.

Growing a natural order with a dog makes peace in the relationship. Natural order is not a routine. Teaching people to know their animals is an incredible experience. Our program is different from anything you will find in the dog training world because it is real.

Learning a dog

Have you ever dreamed of being a dog trainer? There is a difference in dog training vs. people training. There are thousands of people who LOVE their dogs, but they will never truly know their animal. As a student in our program, you will enjoy mentoring people to see the world as their dog sees it. The dog knows how to read a person and maneuver his/her owner. By learning to read the dog, the owner can become a leader that the dog can completely trust and respect.

A trained dog only knows a series of commands, but commands have nothing to do with the behavior of an animal. Dog trainers use commands to go around behaviors and must use outside reinforcements to do so.

Want to learn what is real about an animal? Our program teaches you how to grow a natural order and understand any dog without the need for outside reinforcements, regardless of age, sex, breed, ect. Our methods are proven and are guaranteed. As a master in his field, Ralph Gibson has taught over 15,000 dogs and people.

Belief Statement

At Ralph Gibson's World of Dogs, we do not use any outside reinforcements such as pinch chains, shock collars, food treats, drugs, bribes, force, intimidation or punishment of any kind. We believe we have the most effective, humane training program available.
